Art Unit: 1775

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is unclear whether the claimed diamond is on the surface of the substrate or within the substrate, rendering the claims indefinite.

3. A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 36 recites the broad recitation Pt group, and the claim also recites Pd which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Zakhidov et al (6,261,469).

As best construed by the language of the claims, Zakhidov et al discloses the claimed diamond or doped diamond on an open framework within the claimed thickness.

6. Claims 1-7, 17-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Saito et al (6,361,857).

As best construed by the language of the claims, Saito et al discloses the claimed diamond on the claimed substrate.

7. Claims 1-7, 17-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Okamura et al (5,618,625) or Kikuchi et al (4,731,296) or Peters et al (5,567,526).

Art Unit: 1775

As best construed by the language of the claims, the above references disclose the claimed diamond on the claimed substrate.

8. Claims 1-7, 17-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fujitsu (JP 06056585 or 04129622) or Idemitsu (JP 05320910) or De Beers (EP 0 518631).

As best construed by the language of the claims, the above references disclose the claimed diamond on the claimed substrate.
